Keep Consumers Informed about Factory Service Schedules and Recalls Affecting their Vehicles

Detroit, Michigan, April 7, 2008 - Autodata Solutions, Inc. (www.autodatasolutions.com), an industry leading automotive technology and data provider, introduces factory service and recall data. The new offering keeps consumers informed about regular vehicle service and maintenance recommended by the manufacturer and includes a list of items to be inspected, serviced, or replaced, as well as related parts and labor time. It includes comprehensive coverage of factory service schedules for most US vehicles dating back to 1992 and National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) safety recall notices for most US vehicles dating back to 1981.

The maintenance service and recall data compliments Autodata Solutions' robust vehicle data that includes industry best standard and optional vehicle data in English, Spanish and Canadian French, regionalized incentives and rebates, performance data, vehicle images and videos, and editorial content.

"Autodata Solutions accelerates innovation for dealership service providers and internet media portals by enabling them to educate and engage the consumer with comprehensive vehicle descriptions as well as details that may impact their buying, selling and ownership decisions", said Michael Benavides, Senior Director of Business Development. "Later this year we plan to launch technical service bulletins and green vehicle data for environmentally focused consumers," he added.
